

Environmental responsibility

Our responsibility to the environment

SSI SCHAEFER has for many years been one of the leading companies in Europe, particularly with regard to environmentally friendly production processes. We are conscious of our responsibility and we strive for the highest levels of environmental compatibility in development, production and the disposal of our products. Awards and grants from different organisations, including a grant from the European Community as part of the LIFE project are evidence of our environmental commitment.

Environmental protection is an important part of our corporate principles and accompanies all environmental processes within the company. We are careful to make all products and our production and business processes, in collaboration with our employees, as environmentally friendly as possible.

As a company with decades of experience in the fields of waste technology and recycling, we ensure that recycling never becomes more expensive, but instead becomes simpler and specifically more effective, both for our customers and for our internal waste disposal and recycling operations.

This significant contribution to environmental protection is our incentive to research other solutions and improvements. Going far beyond the legal framework guidelines, we consider ourselves to be a company that takes its environmental responsibility seriously.